

Extract from Something New

Rising from the bed Sally once more lead the way though the cave system. Both of them were still naked, and Jasmin got an eye full through the last passage.

"Like the view?" Sally joked, "Because you'll get a closer look later."

Confused at Sally's remark, Jasmin watched as Sally got ready the magic illusions she wanted.

"Okay, first the disappearing lady." Sally said, showing Jasmin the box.

Jasmin quickly got inside; she hoped this would be good. Sally rubbed out both the woman's arms, and sure enough Jasmin stepped out of the illusion with out any arms, even her shoulders had been partially removed.

"Cool," Jasmin said, she was really starting to enjoy this.

"Next, an illusion I failed to show you." Sally said.

"But, but I thought you had showed me all the illusions?"

"Not quite, I wanted to keep at least one back."

Sally disappeared amongst the boxes to return with a strange looking device. It was a pole with measurements in feet and inches down its length and a flat square of blue painted plastic on the top, looking as if it would move along the pole's length. Sally removed a side strip on the mismatched box and fitted the device inside.

"Now could you step inside please?"

"So what does it do?"

"Oh, you'll soon find out."